Queensland Advocacy Incorporated Present

“VIOLENCE against PEOPLE WITH DISABILITY in Their HOMES”

#disViolence

Monday 24th September, 2018
Ithaca Room
Brisbane City Hall.
9.30am to 4.30pm

About the Forum:

Key issues that emerged from the highly successful 2017 Forum “Walk the Talk: Realising the National Disability Strategy and our Human Rights Promises” which were recognised as requiring priority redress, have been identified and classed by QAI as forms of Violence against People with Disability. The majority of these acts of violence occur in their homes.

At this forum actors with disabilities will perform live the five short vignettes that have been filmed and will be distributed on websites and social media.

We hope and anticipate that the forum and ongoing project will increase general understanding and awareness of violence against people with disability, including the impact it has on a person, the potential perpetrators of violence and the diverse settings and ways in which it can occur.

QAI will launch resources – two booklets, five videos and a website:

The booklets are written in plain language, and illustrated by an artist with disability. These will be widely distributed to people with disability and their families via allies, service providers, health services, Centrelink, police stations and the courts, designed to raise awareness for and on behalf of people with disabilities who are experience violence, in terms of responding to violence, identifying avenues of support and challenging forms of legislative violence.

A corresponding website shall be announced as part of this launch including social media pages as platforms for interactive engagement and the home of the videos performed by the TAFE Actors.

Guest Speakers Include: Keynote address from Disability Discrimination Commissioner Alastair McEwan,

Former Senator and Social Campaigner Andrew Bartlett

People with lived experience, Supporters and Advocates, Dr Natasha Alexander from Consentability, Leona Berrie from Wwild and Ros Williams from Caxton Legal Centre .

AND FEATURING Special Guests – the Actors from the Access and Equity Performing Arts TAFE Maroochydore

To secure your place at this important event, please complete and return the registration form with your registration fee. RSVP Monday 10th September, 2018
